Answer

Section 17(5) of the Freedom of Information Act 2000 requires the Police Service of Northern Ireland, when refusing to provide such information (because the cost of compliance exceeds the appropriate limit) to provide you the applicant with a notice which states that fact.

It is estimated that the cost of complying with your request for information would exceed the “appropriate costs limit” under Section 12(1) of the Freedom of Information Act 2000. Section 12 of FOIA allows a public authority to refuse to deal with a request where it estimates that it would exceed the appropriate limit to either comply with the request in its entirety or confirm or deny whether the requested information is held. The estimate must be reasonable in the circumstances of the case. The ‘appropriate limit’ is currently £600 for central government and £450 for all other public authorities including PSNI. The relevant Regulations which define the appropriate limit for section 12 purposes are The Freedom of Information and Data Protection (Appropriate Limit and Fees) Regulation 2004 SI 2004 No 3244. These are known as the ‘Fees Regulations’ for brevity.

Regulation 4(3) of the Fees Regulations states that a public authority can take into account the costs it reasonably expects to incur in carrying out the following permitted activities in complying with the request:

- (i) determining whether the information is held;
- (ii) locating the information, or a document containing it;
- (iii) retrieving the information, or a document containing it; and
- (iv) extracting the information from a document containing it.

Under those regulations PSNI can calculate the time spent on each of these permitted activities at £25 per hour (thus if the activity(s) takes more than 18 hours PSNI will be in excess of the 'appropriate limit').

Please be advised that the Police Service of Northern Ireland do not employ PCSO's or Special Constables. In respect of Police Officers, Professional Standards have advised that the means by which improper conduct is reported to them is not recorded in an easily retrievable way. It would be necessary to examine all discipline files for the period requested in order to establish how many instances there have been of challenging and reporting improper conduct. During the past 7 years there have been approximately 8500 discipline/complaint files, the examination of which, based on a conservative estimate of 2 minutes work per file, would take over 280 hours work. The files prior to 2010 are held as hard copies, and it is estimated that this would also take in excess of 280 hours.

In relation to Police Staff, Human Resources have advised that there are no records held of who reports instances of challenging and reporting improper conduct. Therefore they are unable to advise how many Police Staff have challenged or reported improper conduct since the introduction of the Code of Ethics.

In accordance with the Freedom of Information Act 2000, this letter should be considered as a Refusal Notice, and the request has therefore been closed.

You may wish to submit a refined request in order that the cost of complying with your request may be facilitated within the 'appropriate limit'. In compliance with Section 16 of the Act, I have considered how your request may be refined to bring it under the appropriate limit. In respect of Police Officers, Professional Standards may be able to provide the number of occasions during the past 5 years where improper conduct has been reported via the Integrity Line system.

Submission of a refined request would be treated as a new request, and considered in accordance with the Freedom of Information Act 2000, including consideration of relevant Part II exemptions.

If you have any queries regarding your request or this decision please do not hesitate to contact me on 028 9070 0164. When contacting the Freedom of Information Team, please quote the reference number listed at the beginning of this letter.
