This is an exceptional release presenting police recorded crime statistics at Northern Ireland level in the period since Covid-19 lockdown measures were introduced on 23rd March. It is produced as an Official Statistic in accordance with the pillars and principles set out in the Code of Practice for Statistics.

All records from 1st April 2019 are currently subject to ongoing validation and quality assurance processes until publication of the financial year 2019/20 on 15th May 2020; 4% of the records since 1st April 2020 have not yet been given a crime classification.

In the six weeks from 23rd March 2020 to 3rd May 2020 compared with the same time period in 2019:

- Overall police recorded crime has fallen by nearly 30 per cent.
- Crime has fallen across each of the main crime types.
- The decrease in crime over the six weeks to 3rd May is less than was seen over the five weeks to 26th April, with the exception of certain theft offences and burglary.

Keeping People Safe

1. What has been happening to levels of police recorded crime since lockdown measures were introduced on 23rd March 2020?

The decrease in crime over the six weeks 23rd March to 3rd May is less than was seen in the previously published figures covering the five weeks to 26th April, with the exception of burglary, shoplifting and the 'all other theft offences' classification.

When compared with the same period the previous year, in the six weeks since lockdown measures were introduced on 23rd March 2020:

- Overall crime has fallen by nearly 30 per cent.
- Violence against the person has fallen by 18 per cent.
 - Violence with and without injury have both fallen by around 30 per cent.
 - Six homicides have been recorded, compared with three in the same time period the previous year.
 - Harassment: In June 2019, increased compliance in recording offences within the harassment classification led to higher levels recorded from this date. This means that the two time periods being reported on within this release are not directly comparable and the increase shown in Table 1 should be viewed in this context. Crimes recorded within the harassment classification during the six weeks 23rd March to 3rd May 2020 are lower when compared with what has been recorded during an average six week period over 12 months to 22nd March 2020.
- Sexual offences have fallen by nearly half.
- Robberies have fallen by nearly two fifths. Robbery of personal robbery has fallen by two fifths, while robbery of business property has fallen slightly from 18 to 13.
- Theft offences have fallen by nearly half.
 - Burglaries are more than two fifths lower.
 - Shoplifting is three fifths lower.
 - Vehicle offences have fallen by more than two fifths.
- Criminal damage has fallen by more than one third.
- Drug offences and public order offences have fallen by nearly one third.

¹ Changes can be expected to in-year figures each time they are published. All records from 1st April 2019 are currently subject to ongoing validation and quality assurance processes.

² Individual crime types may not add to Total Police Recorded Crime as there will be some crimes yet to complete the validation process and be allocated to a crime classification. There are 312 crimes in the current time period yet to be classified.

³ '-' indicates that for offences recorded a percentage change is not reported because the base number of offences is less than 50.

⁴ An increase in compliance in relation to Home Office Counting Rules for recording harassment and malicious communications was seen from June 2019. This means that the figures for the two time periods are not directly comparable and the increase between the two time periods presented above should be seen in this context.

2. What are the weekly trends?

Figures 2 to 6 show the weekly totals since Monday 6th January 2020 for the main crime types. These are compared with the average weekly levels recorded in the 12 months to 22nd March 2020, i.e. prior to the introduction of the lockdown measures on March 23rd. Please note that these charts are not all shown to the same scale.

Falling crime levels can be seen from week beginning Monday 16th March, with the lowest level of overall crime recorded the following week. Easter fell between the 10th and 14th April and this may have had some influence on the slightly higher levels seen in the week beginning 6th April.

While the week beginning 27th April is showing the highest weekly total for overall crime, it is showing the lowest weekly total for burglary and theft (excluding burglary) since lockdown measures were introduced.

Coverage

Statistics on police recorded crime in Northern Ireland are collated and produced by statisticians seconded to the Police Service of Northern Ireland (PSNI) from the Northern Ireland Statistics and Research Agency (NISRA). They are recorded in compliance with the Home Office Counting Rules and further details of recording practices are available in the User Guide to Police Recorded Crime Statistics.

Finalised figures covering the 12 months to 31 March 2020 (financial year 2019/20) will be published on 15 May 2020. A full publication schedule is available on the PSNI website.
