Coverage

This release is produced in accordance with the pillars and principles set out in the Code of Practice for Statistics.

The Police Service of Northern Ireland (PSNI) publishes figures on the levels and trends in police recorded domestic abuse incidents and crimes. As these figures only relate to those domestic abuse incidents reported to the police, they only provide an indication of the true extent of domestic abuse. The statistics are collated and produced by statisticians seconded to the Police Service of Northern Ireland (PSNI) from the Northern Ireland Statistics and Research Agency (NISRA). Collation of this data started in 2004/05.

This release presents statistics relating to domestic abuse incidents and crimes recorded by the police to 31st March 2022 (financial year 2021/22). Revisions have been applied to figures recorded in previous financial years.

All tables and charts in the bulletin, along with supplementary data, are available from the PSNI website in the Domestic Abuse spreadsheet for March 2022, 303KB \(opens in a new window\).

The next update covering the 12 months to 30th June 2022 will be published on 25th August 2022. A full publication schedule, 32KB \(opens in a new window\) is available on the PSNI website.

Domestic Abuse Definition

The PSNI has adopted the definition of domestic violence and abuse as outlined in the 2016 Northern Ireland Government Strategy 'Stopping Domestic and Sexual Violence and Abuse in Northern Ireland' as:

'threatening, controlling, coercive behaviour, violence or abuse (psychological, virtual, physical, verbal, sexual, financial or emotional) inflicted on anyone (irrespective of age, ethnicity, religion, gender, gender identity, sexual orientation or any form of disability) by a current or former intimate partner or family member'.

The following will assist in the application of this definition:

- (a) 'Incident' means an incident anywhere and not confined to the home of one of the partners/family members;
- (b) 'Family members' include mother, father, son, daughter, brother, sister, grandparents, whether directly or indirectly related, in-laws or stepfamily.
- (c) 'Intimate partners' means there must have been a relationship with a degree of continuity and stability. The relationship must also have had (or reasonably supposed to have had) a sexual aspect, such as in the relationship between husband and wife or between others generally recognised as a couple including same sex couples.

What is a domestic abuse incident or domestic abuse crime as recorded by the police?

Police recorded crime data is a victim oriented approach to crime recording. A crime will be recorded as having a domestic abuse motivation where it meets the relevant definition provided above. Not all domestic abuse incidents will result in the recording of a crime, as what has occurred in the incident may not be of the level of severity that would result in a crime being recorded. Where crimes with a domestic abuse motivation are recorded, they are classified according to the Home Office Counting Rules and form a subset of the overall police recorded crime statistics.

Further details of the background and recording practice in relation to police recorded crime statistics are available in the User Guide to Police Recorded Crime Statistics, 1MB \(opens in a new window\). An explanation of what constitutes an incident and a crime is provided in Section 2.1 of this guide, while reference to domestic abuse incidents and crimes is available in Section 5. These recording practices, methods of counting outcomes and allocation of crime types apply equally to crimes with a domestic abuse motivation.

Points to note in this bulletin

Revisions: Revisions to figures for previous financial years are applied on an annual basis in May

Incidents and Crimes: Domestic abuse crimes recorded by the police are included in the domestic abuse incident count and therefore the two should not be added together.

Offences where a police officer becomes a crime victim whilst attending a domestic incident in the course of carrying out their duty are not included in the domestic abuse crime figures; however the incident that was attended by police will be recorded as domestic abuse incident.

Harassment (including malicious communications): Recording of malicious communications started on 1st April 2017. A Home Office change introduced in April 2018 requires harassment to be recorded in addition to the most serious additional victim based offence. Both of these changes in recording practice should be considered in relation to any changes in the overall harassment classification.

Coercive and Controlling Behaviour: The Domestic Abuse and Civil Proceedings Act (Northern Ireland) 2001 created a new Domestic Abuse Offence which criminalises a course of abusive behaviour (including coercive and controlling behaviour, psychological abuse, emotional abuse, financial abuse and economic abuse). Recording of this offence started on 21st February 2022, and has been included within the Harassment classification. Further information on the Domestic Abuse Offence is available on the Department of Justice website \(opens in a new window\).

2. What is happening to levels of domestic abuse incidents and crimes over the longer term?

Since 2004/05 there has been a general increase in levels of domestic abuse incidents and crimes recorded by the police, with incident levels in 2021/22 one and a half times higher than those at the start of the series and crime levels two and a quarter times higher.

Domestic abuse incidents tend to be higher in the months leading up to the summer, during the summer and also during December. From 2016/17 to 2018/19 the number of domestic abuse incidents peaked in December, while since 2019/20 the highest number of incidents have been seen in June and July. The 2,981 domestic abuse incidents recorded in July 2021 is the highest monthly figure since the start of the data series in 2004/05. Figure 2 shows the pattern of domestic abuse incidents since April 2016.

More detailed statistics from 2004/05 are available through the publication Trends in Domestic Abuse Incidents and Crimes Recorded by the Police in Northern Ireland 2004/05 to 2020/21, 710KB \(opens in a new window\).

3. What has been happening to levels of domestic abuse incidents and crimes more recently?

In the 12 months from 1st April 2021 to 31st March 2022:

- There were 33,186 domestic abuse incidents recorded by the police in Northern Ireland, an increase of 1,990 (6.4 per cent) on the previous 12 months and the highest level since the start of the data series in 2004/05.
- The number of domestic abuse crimes recorded by the police reached 21,723, an increase of 2,698 (14.2 per cent) on the previous 12 months and the highest figure recorded since 2004/05.
- There were 18 domestic abuse incidents and 11 domestic abuse crimes per 1,000 population¹, compared with 16 domestic abuse incidents and 10 domestic abuse crimes recorded during the previous 12 months.
- All major offence types saw increases, except for criminal damage and breaches of non-molestation orders. [Table 1]
- The largest volume increase in domestic abuse crimes was seen in offences of violence without injury, which rose by 1,477 (24.3 per cent). [Table 1]
- The number of domestic abuse incidents was higher in all months during 2021/22 when compared with 2020/21, with the exception of April, May and August 2021. The number of domestic abuse crimes was higher in each month of 2021/22. [Figures 3 & 4]

Domestic abuse homicide: There were nine homicides with a domestic abuse motivation in both 2020/21 and 2021/22². Four of the victims in 2021/22 were female, while there were eight female victims during the previous 12 months. Two of the victims in 2021/22 were under 18, with all victims in 2020/21 being 18 or over. Overall homicide figures are available in the Police Recorded Crime Monthly Update to 31st March 2022, 750KB \(opens in a new window\).

² '-' indicates that for offences recorded a percentage change is not reported because the base number of offences is less than 50

What is the difference between a domestic abuse incident and crime recorded by the police?

Not all domestic abuse incidents will result in the recording of a crime, as what has occurred in the incident may not be of the level of severity that would result in a domestic abuse crime being recorded. Some domestic abuse incidents will result in multiple crimes being recorded. Domestic abuse crimes are included in the incident count and the two should not be added together.

In the twelve months to 31st March 2022 there were 33,186 incidents recorded by the police where there was a domestic abuse motivation. Of these, there were 15,940 incidents which did not involve a crime (i.e. incidents where the circumstances did not amount to an offence being committed). The remaining 17,246 incidents involved one or more crimes (amounting to 21,723 domestic abuse crimes in total). Just under half of recorded incidents in this time period did not result in a crime being recorded.

4. What has been happening in policing districts?

When comparing the current and previous 12 months, nine policing districts showed an increase in the number of domestic abuse incidents, and all eleven policing districts showed an increase in the number of domestic abuse crimes. Belfast City policing district, which accounts for more than a quarter of all domestic abuse incidents and crimes recorded in Northern Ireland, showed a 6.8 per cent increase in the number of incidents, and a 14.3 per cent increase in the number of crimes.

5. Background and Data Quality

Data collection and data accuracy

Data The identification of a domestic abuse motivation is derived from a motivation 'tick box' on the system used by PSNI to record crime. The motivation is identified and completed by a police officer or member of police staff for each such reported incident or crime. The correct application of a domestic abuse motivation for all such incidents/crimes is not quality assured by the PSNI's Statistics Branch, but audits and data quality checks are routinely conducted in an attempt to ensure that any under or over-recording is corrected. Domestic abuse crimes are included within the police recorded crime statistics for Northern Ireland and these crimes are recorded in compliance with the Home Office Counting Rules. A comprehensive validation and quality assurance process has been set in place to ensure that the numbers and types of crimes being recorded meet the standards set down in these rules. Details of the data quality checks and processes that PSNI has in place are available in section 4 of the User Guide to Police Recorded Crime Statistics in Northern Ireland, 1MB \(opens in a new window\).

Annual Revisions: Revisions to previously published data are applied on an annual basis to financial year domestic abuse crime figures from 2015/16 onwards, as a result of the introduction of the wider outcomes framework in April 2015. These revisions take account of crime cancellations and sanction outcomes identified since the previous annual publication. Revisions of this nature will next be applied in May 2023. Further guidance on crime cancellation can be found in the Home Office Counting Rules for Recorded Crime \(opens in a new window\).

How the data is used

Domestic abuse statistics have been collated by PSNI in their current format since 2004/05. They are used widely within PSNI as management information and to monitor performance on domestic abuse related targets against the Policing Plan. The figures are also used by government departments and other voluntary and statutory agencies to inform debate and policy development regarding domestic abuse in Northern Ireland. Furthermore it is widely accepted that there is under-reporting of domestic abuse incidents to the police.
